Sid Gillman Collection

OVERVIEW OF THE COLLECTION

Creator: The Walter Havighurst Special Collections
Date Range: ca. 1955 - 2004
Quantity: 2.0 cubic feet
Location: Closed stacks

COLLECTION SUMMARY

The Sid Gillman Collection forms a portion of the Cradle of Coaches Archive and includes 18 play books, spanning the length of his professional career. These play books were the personal working copies of Gillman and contain extensive original hand notes, drawings, magazine clippings, ideas written on slips of paper, etc.

Most of the play books contain a "BOOK CONTENTS" page, which appears to be a recent addition (i.e., was not a part of the books during Gillman's days). The play books in this collection are not ordered chronologically, nor do the numbers assigned to each play book (e.g., Book #10) follow any logical order. These idiosyncrasies are maintained in this collection.

Several play books are autographed by Sid Gillman across the front page in blue felt-tipped pen.

In addition to the play books, this collection includes biographical information about Gillman from several websites, a testimonial from a former colleague of Gillman's, news clippings, and original reel-to-reel footage of the University of Cincinnati football team from the 1940s. Please contact The Walter Havighurst Special Collections (513-529-3323) at least two weeks in advance of your visit, if you wish to access the UC film.

PROVENANCE OF THE COLLECTION

Two Miami University alumni from Urbana, Ohio, Gerald Stout ('52), Nick Selvaggio ('88), and Gerald's son, Steve Stout, donated the collection to the Walter Havighurst Special Collections.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

Sidney Gillman was born in Minneapolis, Minnesota on October 26, 1911. He played end for Ohio State football in 1933 and for the Cleveland Rams in 1936. He took assistant coaching positions at Denison University, Ohio State, and Miami University from 1937 to 1943; becoming head coach at Miami in 1944, which culminated in an undefeated final season and Sun Bowl championship. Following a short assistantship under Earl Blaik at West Point, Gillman accepted the head coaching position with the University of Cincinnati. After ten years in college football, Gillman's overall statistics were a phenomenal 81-19-2.

Gillman made the move to professional football by becoming head coach (and later general manager) for the Los Angeles Rams (1955-59). In 1960, the team name was changed to the Los Angeles Chargers, and in 1961 they moved to San Diego (1961-71). From 1973-74 Gillman coached the Houston Oilers. Throughout his professional football coaching career, Gillman led the Rams to one NFL championship and the Chargers to five AFL title games.

Following his many years as head coach, Gillman consulted for the Philadelphia Eagles, New Orleans Saints, Washington Redskins, and the Los Angeles Express (USFL); not retiring until the late 1980s.

Gillman is credited with transforming the passing game by employing deep downfield passes, referred to as the West Coast offense. Additionally, he was the first to use film to review play strategies and execution, to place players' names on the backs of their jerseys, and is credited with conceptualizing the Super Bowl four years ahead of the first AFL-NFL championship game.

Gillman was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1983 and into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1989.

He died peacefully at home on January 3, 2003 in Carlsbad, California at the age of 91. At the time of his passing, Sid left behind his wife of 67 years, four children, eight grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

ORGANIZATION OF THE COLLECTION

NOTE: The play books in this collection are not ordered chronologically, nor do the numbers assigned to each play book (e.g., Book #10) follow any logical order. These idiosyncrasies are maintained here.
