BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

John Hough James (1800-1881) was a native of Urbana, Ohio and a graduate of Cincinnati College. He was a lawyer, banker, railroad builder, scientific farmer and stockbreeder, legislator, politician, editor, lecturer and writer.

A friend of Henry Clay and William Henry Harrison, James utilized his work as a lawyer and legislator in advising Whig leaders in Congress and the General Assembly of Ohio. As a banker and railroad builder, James was a pioneer in the development of western banking and transportation. He was treasurer and president of the Mad River and Lake Erie Railroad, building one of the earliest railroads of the country. He also pursued farming and stockbreeding. Finally, James founded Urbana University, the first Swedenborgian College in the world, giving the land for the campus and serving as a lifelong trustee for the institution.

John H. James married Abigail Bailey in 1825. The couple had four children: Ellen Rachel (1826), Gertrude Vanuxem (1828), Francis Bailey (1831), and John Henry (1834), who was affectionately called Bub as a child. All of James' children are featured prominently in this collection with the exception of Francis Bailey who died in early childhood.

Ellen Rachel and Gertrude Vanuxem spent most of their adolescence living with James' family in Cincinnati while attending private schools. After completing their educations, James' daughters traveled extensively to visit family and friends and to attend various societal functions. In 1856, Gertrude married Henry Thayer Niles, with whom she had six children: John James, Gertrude, Ellen James, Frank Bailey, Anna Lathrop and Helen.

After attending the Kentucky Military Institute, John Henry James traveled briefly throughout the Midwest as a land surveyor. In 1861, John Henry joined the Union Army as an officer and was engaged in several prominent battles of the Civil War. Suffering from typhoid fever and dysentery, John Henry resigned from the Army in 1863. While taking care of a very ill John Henry, both his mother, Abigail and his sister Ellen fell ill and died. After recovering from his sickness, John Henry married Harriet Lynch in 1863. The couple had seven children: Abbe Bailey, Margaret Lynch, Gertrude Vanuxem, John Hough, Alexander Lane, Harriet and Fanny.

Following the deaths of Ellen Rachel James and Abigail Bailey James in 1863, John Hough James devoted much of his time to the "New Church" or Swedenborgian religion. The remaining eighteen years of James' life were spent practicing law, attending New Church conventions, and entertaining his surviving children and grandchildren at his Urbana home.

SCOPE AND CONTENTS OF THE COLLECTION

The collection begins in 1814 with correspondence between John H. James and his adolescent friends. Letters exchanged between I.T. Griffith, David Wallace (future Governor of Indiana), and William Henry Harrison Jr., saturate the collection, offering insight into James' thoughts on school, girls, and local business endeavors.

Correspondence with friends, family, and business associates continues throughout the late 1810's and early 1820's as James was first working on his father's steamboat and frequently traveling down the Mississippi River from Louisville, Kentucky to New Orleans, Louisiana, and later practicing law in Cincinnati. The frequency in which John mentions the Whig Party increases significantly after he met Henry Clay at Olympian Springs, Kentucky in 1823. John remained an active member of the Whig Party throughout his life, and continued to write about the party's platform and ideology even after it fell out of fashion among significant members of society.

Many of the letters focus on John's career and detailed discussion of his various financial and business endeavors. While practicing law, John writes most frequently about significant court cases, trial outcomes, and travel to Indianapolis for U.S. Circuit Court. As a founding member of the Urbana Banking Company, James writes about both the rise and fall of the banking company, as he struggled to maintain internal relations among board members and investors.
